INTRODUCTION

Why Propers

This book provides music for the propers of the Mass, which are integral to the structure of the liturgy and which have been sung since the earliest centuries. The entrance, offertory, and communion chants in this book are for use in the ordinary form of the Roman Rite. The translations of the antiphons found in this collection are from the Gregorian Missal as published by Solesmes, and the Psalms verses are taken from the Revised Grail Psalter. You can find these texts in Latin in their Gregorian musical setting in the Graduale Romanum.

How important are the propers in the ordinary form of the liturgy? In 1969, the Vatican's Consilium that released the new Mass in the ordinary form was asked a question about the old prohibition of singing of propers at Low Masses with hymns: The unambiguous answer came back: "That rule has been superseded. What must be sung is the Mass, its Ordinary and Proper, not 'something,' no matter how consistent, that is imposed on the Mass ... To continue to replace the texts of the Mass ... is to cheat the people."

This is why the General Instruction on the Roman Missal (GIRM) speaks of adding decorum to the processions (entrance, offertory, and communion) by singing the "chants proper to them" (44). "After the people have gathered, the Entrance chant begins" (47). "The procession bringing the gifts is accompanied by the Offertory chant, which continues at least until the gifts have been placed on the altar" (74). "While the priest is receiving the Sacrament, the Communion chant is begun" (87).

If we are to grant chant pride of place at Mass (41), the propers of the Mass clearly need greater attention. As Cardinal Ratzinger wrote in The Spirit of Liturgy, "the biblical and liturgical texts are the normative words from which liturgical music has to take its bearings.” However, despite the frequent mention of Mass propers in many documents, there has been a surprising dearth of resources available to sing the propers in English, which is a step toward singing the Mass instead of just singing at Mass.

The Simple English Propers provides music for the full liturgical action of these processions for singers who have not previously sung Mass propers. They are designed to be used without accompaniment. They are flexible enough to be sung by a cantor alone or by a large choir that can sing in unison in two octaves or be divided into high voices and low voices. The people are free to join in but this is not necessary, for the propers of the Mass belong primarily to the choir.

The Structure

The singing structure is as follows. Begin with the antiphon (that’s the opening text and melody). A cantor intones the antiphon up to the asterisk (*) and then the rest of the choir or section continues. Antiphons without an asterisk are intended to be sung by a cantor alone the first time with the choir repeating the entire antiphon thereafter. If desired, antiphons with asterisks can also be sung in full by a cantor with the choir or section then repeating the entire antiphon. Then the first psalm verse is sung, which is followed by a repetition of the antiphon by the choir or section. Continue this alternation between the antiphon and psalm as needed to cover the liturgical action, and end with the antiphon. The “Glory be” on the entrance and communion, which may be sung as the final verse, is traditional but optional.

How to Sing the SEP

To best way to begin singing the Single English Propers is to first speak the text by itself. Chant is a solemn proclamation of a liturgical text first, ennobled by song. But if the text is unclear or proclaimed in an overly affected way, it can become imbalanced and its presentation will elude its purpose. As the singers speak the text, they should be conscious of the words and syllables that receive emphasis. The same words and syllables should receive emphasis when sung. Remember that not all words and syllables are emphasized in speech and the same is true in chant. Each phrase should begin with a slight acceleration and crescendo and end with a natural relaxation and ritard, just as in speech.

The melodies in the Simple English Propers employ the Gregorian modes (modes are the medieval way of organizing scales). There are eight different modes in Gregorian chant. Each one has a special sound and mood. The SEP preserves the mode in which the Latin chants of the Graduale Romanum are composed. The antiphons in this collection have been based upon a total of 24 melodic formulas, or melodic models. There is a different formula for each mode in each type of chant, whether entrance, offertory, or communion. These formulas are specially adapted to the needs of each antiphon. No one melody is exactly the same, but after learning a few antiphons in the same formula, you will begin learning similar ones quickly and intuitively.

Modes sound different from modern scales. They are more nuanced, gradated, and interesting than our modern sense of major and minor. To understand the melody, look at the clef on the left side of each barline. The clef is the compass that allows you to know where the half steps and whole steps fall and, from there, to sing the melody. For this reason, the clef should be kept constantly in mind as you are singing. It is all you need to know the pitches of the melody.

There are two types of clefs: the C clef (or Do clef) and the F clef (or Fa clef). The C clef looks like a C and “clamps” the note for C or Do on the staff. The F clef is the other one that seems to have a note in front of it (it looks something like a stylized F) and it marks the pitch F or Fa.

Just as with the C and F on the keys of a piano or in any scale, the distance of a half step separates that note marked by the clef from the space below (which is a B or an E, depending on the clef). The remainder of the scale follows from here just as on the piano. This can be easily played on the white keys of the piano. Or it can be sounded out using Do Re Mi syllables (most people know Do Re Mi from the movie “The Sound of Music”).

The beauty of the four-line staff (instead of the modern five line staff) is that it presents all you need for singing (the five-line staff is only essential for instruments). In addition, the Do doesn’t have to be fixed on C. It can be any pitch you choose, provided you preserve the relationships between the notes that follow. This allows for total flexibility, in effect permitting any chant to start on any pitch.

Most chants in this volume use a scale that falls mostly below the clef. This allows you to find the scale and the starting pitch by first sounding a Do or Fa and moving downward: Do – Ti – La – Sol – Fa, or Fa – Mi – Re – Do. If you are looking for a quick mental recall, think of “Joy to the World.” This tune begins with this descending scale exactly. This one simple step will orient you in where the half steps and whole steps are. (There is only one accidental in chant: the Bb or the Té.)

The notes and groups of notes (“neumes”) used in this book are few. The single square note (“punctum”) applies to word syllables and follow the pattern of speech. There are also groups of two different notes stacked on one syllable (“podatus”). The lower note is sung first. If the notes go from higher to lower on a single syllable, they can be written as a “clivis.” There are also groups of three moving notes on one syllable (“torculus” and “porrectus”). The melodic shape of these notes follows the rising and falling direction of the notes (the “porrectus” is not slurred, despite its appearance).

Notes with a line over them (“episema”) receive a slight lengthening, and the dotted notes that occur at the ends of phrases are held slightly longer in order to help bring them to a natural conclusion.

There are five division markers that are used in chant notation and in the SEP. These look something like bar lines in modern music, but they serve a very different purpose. Their purpose is to help break up the text according to its grammatical structure and to provide breaks or pauses in the melody, just as it would be spoken.

The largest division mark is the double bar (‡) which is found only at the end of an antiphon or at a conclusive division of a chant. The double bar indicates a complete stop in the music. If verses are sung after the double bar, a pause of a few seconds should be observed before proceeding on. The second division is the whole bar (⌘) which marks the end of complete phrases in a chant. The whole bar usually coincides with a period in the text, and a substantial rhetorical pause should be observed, just as in speech. The third division is the half bar (⌘) which breaks the text of a chant at intermediate pauses. The pause at the half bar is brief and shorter than a whole bar, and a breath should always be taken. The fourth division is the quarter bar (⌘) which is the equivalent of a musical comma. The quarter bar divides “sense units” in the text. Sometimes a breath is needed and sometimes not. A very brief pause should be taken at the quarter bar and the musical line should not be interrupted but carry on in a flowing manner. The final division is called the articulation mark (⌘) which is properly not really a division mark at all, but indicates a need for a very slight break in the sound; a “sliver of daylight”. The articulation mark is NOT A BREATH MARK, despite its appearance, and a breath should never be taken for it. All that is needed is a very quick and delicate break in the music, as we often break in a similar way in speech. If the articulation mark presents problems for beginning singers or choirs it may be better ignored.

How to Sing the Psalm Verses

The psalm tones are based on Gregorian tones and are crafted to work seamlessly with the English language. The Psalm tones are found at the end of each antiphon. The psalm text is “pointed” to permit the easy application of the tone.

The psalm tones consist of two musical lines, which are separated by a barline. The first part of the tone is sung to the first line of a psalm verse, which concludes with an asterisk. The second part of the tone is sung to the text that follows the asterisk. After both parts of the tone are sung the tone is repeated in this fashion as needed.

The beginning of a verse is sung on the white note, called the reciting tone. The italicized words or syllables at the end of a line of text coincide with the changing notes at the end of the tone, called the termination. The bold word or syllable indicates the final note of the line. If there are syllables that follow this final note, they are sung on this final pitch. (The exception is the Introit mode 1 tone, where the final syllable is sung on a descending 3-note figure which is broken up if any syllables follow the bold syllable.) When there are three lines of text, you will see the mark for the “flex” (†). Here the singer should not sing the termination, but just pause briefly on the reciting tone and then continue singing.

The chanting of the psalms is a simple but delicate art. The text is sung lightly, in the manner of good speech, with a slight emphasis on word accents, just as you would speak them. At the beginning of a line you should sing with a slight acceleration, and at the end of the tone the singing should relax and coast naturally to a rest. At the asterisk (*) there should be a short pause of one to two seconds. This keeps the psalm from being rushed, adds a moment of repose and reflection, and adds much beauty to the singing of the psalms.

Conclusion

If you are discouraged at first, stay at it. You will learn quickly. The more you sing, the more expressive and driven your chant will become. Each chant will begin to take on its own personality over time. As a final reminder, never forget the purpose to chant: to proclaim the liturgical text with beauty and nobility.

The Simple English Propers was composed and edited by Adam Bartlett under the guidance of Fr. Columba Kelly, OSB as well as the guidance of many in the sacred-music community, and was engraved by Steven van Roode. It benefited from comments by hundreds of dedicated people at the ChantCafe.com and the forum at MusicaSacra.com, where this book was posted week by week in 2010 in a beta test that went live in parishes around the English-speaking world. The editions of music improved due to this “crowd sourcing” technique, and this led to a unique and tremendously successful experiment: the funding too was crowd sourced. The publishers are grateful to the many benefactors who contributed to make this edition possible.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

An effort such as this one could not have come into being without the cooperation and collaboration of a diverse range of people and events. Thanksgiving and glory are ultimately due to God alone, without whom this book would be an exercise in futility. But by the grace of God and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit the need for this collection was discerned and through the combined efforts of a dedicated group of people it was created.

I would like to thank our Holy Father Pope Benedict XVI for his vision for the renewal of the sacred liturgy, and of sacred music. It is his admonition that an authentic updating of sacred music is indeed needed in our time—one that grows organically out of the the great tradition of the past—that is compelling young composers to take up the task of adding to the Church's treasure stores.

I would like to thank the faithful bishops, church leaders, priests and religious who are leading the new liturgical movement in our day, and who are tilling the soil for a deeply rooted renewal of the liturgy and of sacred music, especially Bishop Thomas J. Olmsted who has patiently shepherded his flock, of which I am a part, toward a more sacred and solemn celebration of the liturgy. And also Bishop Wall, Msgr. Moroney, Msgr. Wadsworth, Fr. Kline, Fr. Muir, Fr. Floridi, Fr. Lankeit, Fr. Chirovsky, Fr. Jalbert, Fr. O'Connor, Fr. Henry, Fr. Schmid, Fr. Bolding, Fr. Ramirez, the Phoenix Poor Claires, the Sisters of Mary Mother of the Eucharist, and the Sisters of St. Cecelia, who have all been an inspiration and a support.

I thank in a special way Fr. Columba Kelly to whom I am indebted for anything that is of value in this book, who has been a mentor, a guide, and an indispensable source of knowledge and wisdom for me in my pursuit of the art of Gregorian chant. And also to Fr. Samuel Weber for the use of his simple psalm tones in this collection. And to the monks of St. Meinrad Archabbey who have kept alive for many decades the liturgical chant tradition for future generations to experience and learn from.

I would like to thank the faculty and students of the Liturgical Institute of St. Mary of the Lake University, especially Fr. Douglas Martis and Dr. Denis McNamara, for their tireless work in the promotion of the liturgical apostolate and for their insights into authentic liturgical renewal.

Special thanks are due to the Church Music Association of America, and especially to Jeffrey Tucker, in collaboration with whom this project was conceived. Jeffrey has been a most patient and forward-thinking publisher, a close collaborator and a very good friend through the preparation of this collection. All of the readers of the Chant Café and the participants in the Musica Sacra Forum have offered indispensable feedback and criticism that has made this book what it is, and truly have made it possible. Thank you to Aristotle Esguerra, Jeffrey Ostrowski, Jeffrey Morse, Charles Culbreth, Arlene Oost-Zinner, William Mahrt, Richard Chonak, Christopher Berardi, Noel Jones and the many others who have given invaluable feedback and encouragement throughout.

A very special thanks to Prof. László Dobszay for his proposal of a formulaic method of singing the propers of the Mass in a simple style. And for his generous sharing of his wisdom and insights surrounding the problem.

Thank you to Steven van Roode, chant engraver par excellence, who has been a trusted collaborative companion over the many months that this manuscript was being prepared. And to Denys Powlett-Jones who contributed several needed translations for this book. And thanks to all of the volunteers who assisted in the compiling of the source texts and data for this book, and who reported errors and provided feedback through the beta process, especially Erik Paffet, David Deavy, Justin Adams, Greg Plese, Andrew Hinkley, Ernesto Gonzalez, and Chris Sarti. Thank you to the development community of the Gregorio chant engraving software, especially Elie Roux and Tracy Llenos, who have developed the most outstanding chant engraving software available.

Thank you to the choirs and schola cantorum of St. Joan of Arc Parish who have been the most willing guinea pigs and who have faithfully embraced the chant tradition and the liturgical singing of the propers of the Mass.

A special thank you to the sixty-four benefactors who funded this project during an online campaign of fourteen short days. Your willing patronage has made it possible to keep this book free of copyright restriction so that all will be able to use and share it freely.

Thank you to my wonderful wife for her patience throughout this process, and for her support and motherly care of our family. And to all family and friends who have been a constant source of encouragement and support, and to all who I have forgotten to mention, particularly those who have supported this project in prayer.

Lastly, I thank the parish musicians throughout the English speaking world who are working to renew the sacred music tradition in practice, especially those who have supported and followed this project with interest. It is to you whom this book is dedicated, and for you that it was created. May your singing of the propers of the Mass give glory unto God and enrich and sanctify the faithful who you serve.

S Kies, let the Just One come forth like the dew, * let him descend from the clouds like the rain. The earth will open up and give birth to our Sa-vior.

Psalm 19 (18)

1. The heavens declare the glory of God, * and the firmament proclaims the work of his hands.
Day unto day conveys the message, *
and night unto night imparts the knowledge.
2. No speech, no word, whose voice goes unheeded; † their sound goes forth through all the earth, *
their message to the utmost bounds of the world.
3. There he has placed a tent for the sun; †
it comes forth like a bridegroom coming from his tent, * rejoices like a champion to run his course.

VIII

Hail Mary, full of grace, * the Lord is with thee.

Blessed art thou amongst wo-men, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

Lk 1: 34–38

1. But Mary said to the angel, *
“How can this be, since I have no relations with a man?”
2. And the angel said to her in reply, †
“The holy Spirit will come upon you, *
and the power of the Most High will overshadow you.
Therefore the child to be born will be called holy, *
the Son of God.”
3. And behold, Elizabeth, your relative, *
has also conceived a son in her old age,
and this is the sixth month for her who was called barren; *
for nothing will be impossible for God.”
4. Mary said, “Behold, I am the handmaid of the Lord. *
May it be done to me according to your word.”

COMMUNION

Our mer-cy extends to all things, O
 Lord, * and you despise none of the things you have made. You overlook the sins of men for the sake of repentance. You grant them your pardon, because you are the Lord our God.

Psalm 57 (56)

1. Have mercy on me, God, have mercy, *
 for in you my soul has taken refuge.
 In the shadow of your wings I take refuge, *
 till the storms of destruction pass by.

2. I call to you, God the Most High, *

Confitebor tibi, DominePs 119 (118): 7, 10, 17, 25

I will praise you, O Lord, with my whole heart; *

deal bountifully with your ser-vant, that I may live and observe your word; revive me according to your word,

O Lord.

Psalm 119 (118)

1. Blessed are those whose way is blameless, * who walk in the law of the LORD!
 Blessed are those who keep his decrees! *
 With all their hearts they seek him.
2. They never do anything evil, *
 but walk in his ways.
 You have laid down your precepts *
 to be carefully kept.
3. May my ways be firm *
 in keeping your statutes.
 Then I shall not be put to shame *
 as I observe all your commands.

4. I will thank you with an upright heart, *
as I learn your just judgments.

I will keep your statutes; *
do not ever forsake me.

Jn 12: 26

v

I F a man would serve me, * let him follow me; where-ver I am, my servant will be there too.

Psalm 17 (16)

1. O LORD, hear a cause that is just; *
pay heed to my cry.

Turn your ear to my prayer: *
no deceit is on my lips.

From you may my justice come forth. *
Your eyes discern what is upright.

2. My foes encircle me with deadly intent. *
Their hearts tight shut, their mouths speak proudly.
They advance against me, and now they surround me. *
Their eyes watch to strike me to the ground.
They are like a lion ready to claw, *

W

Then the Lord saw the sisters of Lazarus in tears near the tomb, * he wept in the presence of the Jews and cried: Laz- a-rus, come forth. And out he came, hands and feet bound, the man who had been dead for four days.

Psalm 130 (129)

1. Out of the depths I cry to you, O LORD; *
LORD, hear my voice!
O let your ears be attentive *
to the sound of my pleadings.

2. If you, O LORD, should mark iniquities, *
LORD, who could stand?

But with you is found forgiveness, *
that you may be revered.

3. I long for you, O LORD, *
my soul longs for his word.

My soul hopes in the LORD *
more than watchmen for daybreak.

4. More than watchmen for daybreak, *
let Israel hope for the LORD.

For with the LORD there is mercy, *
in him is plentiful redemption.

It is he who will redeem Israel *
from all its iniquities.

W

Oman, has no one condemned you? * - No one,
Lord. - Neither do I condemn you; go and do not sin again.

Psalm 32 (31)

1. Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, * whose sin is remitted.
 Blessed the man to whom the LORD imputes no guilt, *
 in whose spirit is no guile.
2. I kept it secret and my frame was wasted. *
 I groaned all day long,
3. To you I have acknowledged my sin; *
 my guilt I did not hide.
 I said, "I will confess my transgression to the LORD." *
 And you have forgiven the guilt of my sin.
4. I will instruct you and teach you †
 the way you should go; *
 I will fix my eyes upon you.
5. Many sorrows has the wicked, †

 tablished, al-le-lu-ia, al-le-lu-ia.

Psalm 33 (32)

1. Ring out your joy to the LORD, O you just; *
 for praise is fitting for the upright.
 Give thanks to the LORD upon the harp; *
 with a tenstringed lute sing him songs.
 O sing him a song that is new; *
 play skillfully, with shouts of joy.
2. For the word of the LORD is faithful, * and all his works to be trusted.
 The LORD loves justice and right, *
 and his merciful love fills the earth.
3. By the word of the LORD the heavens were made, * by the breath of his mouth all their host.

1. O God, you are my God; at dawn I seek you; *
 for you my soul is thirsting.
 For you my flesh is pining, *
 like a dry, weary land without water.
 I have come before you in the sanctuary, *
 to behold your strength and your glory.
2. Your loving mercy is better than life; *
 my lips will speak your praise.
 I will bless you all my life; *
 in your name I will lift up my hands.
 My soul shall be filled as with a banquet; *
 with joyful lips, my mouth shall praise you.

3. When I remember you upon my bed, *
 I muse on you through the watches of the night.
 For you have been my strength; *
 in the shadow of your wings I rejoice.
 My soul clings fast to you; *
 your right hand upholds me.
4. Those who seek to destroy my life * shall go down to the depths of the earth.

Y Our mer-cy extends to all things, O Lord, * and you despise none of the things you have made. You overlook the sins of men for the sake of repentance.
 You grant them your pardon, because you are the Lord
 our God.

Psalm 57 (56)

1. Have mercy on me, God, have mercy, *
 for in you my soul has taken refuge.
 In the shadow of your wings I take refuge, *
 till the storms of destruction pass by.
2. I call to you, God the Most High, *
 to God who provides for me.
 May he send from heaven and save me, †
 and put to shame those who assail me. *
 May God send his loving mercy and faithfulness.

3. My soul lies down among lions, *

Psalm 103 (102)

1. Bless the LORD, O my soul, *
 and all within me, his holy name.
 It is the LORD who forgives all your sins, *
 who heals every one of your ills,
 who redeems your life from the grave, *
 who crowns you with mercy and compassion,
2. who fills your life with good things, *
 renewing your youth like an eagle's.

3. The LORD does just deeds, * gives full justice to all who are oppressed.
He made known his ways to Moses, *

O Lord Jesus Christ, King of glory, * deliver the souls of all the departed faith-ful from the sufferings of hell and from the deep pit; deliver them from the mouth of the lion, may they not be swallowed up by hell, may they not fall in-to darkness; but may Saint Michael,
the standardbearer, present them in ho-ly light * as you promised long a-go to Abraham and his descendants.

1. We offer our sacrifices * and our prayers to you, O Lord;
receive them for the souls that we are remembering today; *
O Lord, make them pass from death into life.

DEDICATION OF THE LATERAN BASILICA

INTROIT

Deus in loco sancto suoPs 68 (67): 6, 7, 36

^V
GOD is in his ho-ly dwelling place; * the God who causes us to dwell to-gether, one at heart, in his house; he himself will give power and strength to his people.

Psalm 68 (67)

1. God arises, and his enemies are scattered: *
 and those who hate him flee from before his face.
2. As smoke vanishes, you disperse them: † as wax melts before the fire, *
 thus the wicked perish at the presence of God.
 And let the just be glad, and rejoice before God: *
 and let them be delighted with gladness.

3. Sing to God, sing a psalm to his name,*
 make a way for him who rides above the clouds:
 the Lord is his name.*
 Rejoice before him.

Domine Deus, in simplicitate

1 Chron 29: 17, 18

VI

O Lord God, * in the simpli-ci-ty of my heart I have joyfully offered all things; and I have beheld with immense joy your people gathered here. God of Is-ra-el, preserve this good intention, O Lord God.

cf 2 Chron. 7: 11

1. Solomon held a feast at that time, †
 Solomon held a feast at that time: and he prospered,*
 and the Lord, the God of Israel, appeared to him.

2. The majesty of the Lord built the temple: † all the sons of Israel saw the glory of the Lord descend upon the house, *
 and they worshipped and praised the Lord with their speech.

COMMUNION

Ierusalem, quæ ædificaturPs 122 (121): 3, 4

IV

JE-ru-salem, * built as a ci-ty whose parts are bound firmly together! It is there that the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, to give thanks unto your name,
 O Lord.

Psalm 122 (121)

1. I rejoiced when they said to me, *
 “Let us go to the house of the LORD.”
 And now our feet are standing * within your gates, O Jerusalem.
 There were set the thrones for judgment, *
 the thrones of the house of David.

2. For the peace of Jerusalem pray, *
“May they prosper, those who love you.”
May peace abide in your walls, *
and security be in your towers.

 3. For the sake of my family and friends, * let me say, “Peace upon you.”
For the sake of the house of the LORD, our God, *
I will seek good things for you.

I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, * and my soul shall be joyful in my God; for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation; and with the robe of righteousness he has covered me, as a bridegroom decked with a crown, and as a bride adorned with her jewels.

Psalm 30 (29)

1. I will extol you, O Lord, for you have rescued me: *
 and have not made my enemies to rejoice over me.
 O Lord my God, I have cried to you, *
 and you have healed me.

2. You have brought forth, O Lord, my soul from hell: *
 you have given me life, that I might not go down into the pit.
 Sing to the Lord, O you his saints: *
 and give praise to the memory of his holiness.
3. For his indignation is for a moment * and his favor is for a lifetime.
 In the evening weeping abides, *

Lk 1: 28

VIII

H

Ail Mary, full of grace, * the Lord is with thee.

Blessed art thou amongst women, al-le-lu-ia.

Lk 1: 34–38

1. And Mary said to the angel: *
 How shall this be done, because I know not man?
2. And the angel answering, said to her: †
 The Holy Spirit shall come upon you, *
 and the power of the most High shall overshadow you.
 And therefore also the one to be born shall be called holy, *
 the Son of God.

3. And behold your cousin Elizabeth, *
 she also has conceived a son in her old age;
 and this is the sixth month for her who is called barren: *
 Because no word shall be impossible with God.

4. And Mary said: †
 Behold the handmaid of the Lord; *
 be it done to me according to your word.

COMMUNION

GloriosaPs 87(86): 3 ; Lk 1: 49

VIII

Glorious things have been proclaimed * concerning you, O Ma-ry; for the Almighty has done marvelous things on your behalf.

Canticle of Mary (Lk 1: 46–55)

1. My soul magnifies the Lord, * and my spirit has rejoiced in God my Savior.
 For he has regarded the humility of his handmaid; *
 for behold, from this day all generations shall call me blessed.

2. For he who is mighty has done great things to me; *
 and holy is his name.
 And his mercy is from generation to generation *
 for those who fear him.

3. He has shown might in his arm; *
he has scattered the proud in the conceit of their heart.
He has put down the mighty from their seat; *
and he has exalted the humble.

4. He has filled the hungry with good things; *
and the rich he has sent away empty.
He has received Israel his servant, *
being mindful of his mercy:
As he spoke to our fathers, *
to Abraham and to his seed forever.”

 2 Protect your people, O Lord 396
 1 Remember me, O Lord 320
 4 Render secure my footsteps 197, 231
 8 Send forth your Spirit 148
 1 Shout joyfully to God 123, 179
 8 The Angel of the Lord 108
 8 The Angel ... shall encamp 278, 422
 4 The earth trembled 103
 5 The kings of Tarshish 47
 8 The Lord opened the doors 165
 8 The Lord will overshadow 60
 2 The Lord's right hand 187
 4 The ordinances of the Lord 70, 254
 2 The right hand of the Lord 98
 4 The righteous man 370
 1 The souls of the righteous 399
 2 There was a man 315
 8 Turn to me, O Lord 210
 2 Unto you, O Lord 2, 248
 1 Upon the rivers of Babylon 310
 6 Where true charity 94
 5 With expectation I have waited 284
 1 You have crowned him 366, 383
 3 You will make them princes 379
 5 You will save the humble nation 243
 3 You will turn 6
 4 Yours are the heavens 29
